D. of the Royal College of Physicians, London, Member of the Medical and Philosophical Societies of Edinburgh, and of the Medical Society of London. Read November 27, 1737. S I R, AT your desire I sit down to inform you of the result of my practice, and the few observations I made on the influenza of Although this, and the following Article, have lain some years with the Medical Society, the want of opportunity having hitherto prevented their publication; yet the subject on which they treat is no less interesting to posterity, than if they had been printed much earlier; and appearances of a catarrhal affection resembling the influenza, on which they treat, having recently occurred, the present time was deemed eligible, more especially as no late miscellaneous publication contains a complete account of the disease. 1782. Though I know it can add little to what you are already in possession of, yet the desire I feel for the encouragement of every scheme which tends to the improvement of that science, into the principles of which I have been initiated, induces me the more readily to add my mite. From the 1st of January this year, till about the end of May, throughout most places in the kingdom, the weather was uncommonly unfavourable. Snow, frost, rain, wind, lightning, and thunder to a great...
